Royal Challengers Bangalore and Kohli rule #CricketTwitter

Ahmedabad, Twitter is the homeground for some of the most passionate real-time cricket conversations in the country, in fact, between January 2021-January 2022, 4.4 million people on Twitter in India sent out 96.2 million tweets about cricket. And as fans returned to stadiums this cricket season to experience their favourite sport, their cheers echoed loud and clear on Twitter too. While Gujarat Titans (@Gujarat_titans), won the tournament trophy, Royal Challengers Bangalore (@RCBTweets) won on Twitter - becoming the most Tweeted about team of the season. The team's former skipper, Virat Kohli (@ViratKohli), also remained the talk of the Twitter community - becoming the most Tweeted about player of the season. To enhance the experience of cricket fans,

BPCL files oil theft complaint in Kandla

Ahmedabad : A week after the incident, the Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd (BPCL) has registered a complaint of 700 litres of high speed diesel worth Rs 63,000 and theft from its pipeline and informed the fire brigade of DPT. They did not find any evidence of human presence there or any equipment used in pilferage. It's suspected that somebody had punctured the pipeline in the past with the intention of oil theft and then did not close it properly so they could steal it again. However, the puncture opened due to high pressure and the pipeline started leaking. The company staff and fire brigades carried out the maintenance of the pipeline and started supply from the vessel again.

Gulvani stated that he got information about leakage from the pipeline at around 6am on May 22. He reached the spot after supply in the pipeline was stopped and informed the fire brigade of DPT. They did not find any evidence of human presence there or any equipment used in pilferage. It's suspected that somebody had punctured the pipeline in the past with the intention of oil theft and then did not close it properly so they could steal it again. However, the puncture opened due to high pressure and the pipeline started leaking. The company staff and fire brigades carried out the maintenance of the pipeline and started supply from the vessel again.

Akshay and Manushi pay tribute to Samrat Prithviraj at Somnath Temple

Ahmedabad, Akshay Kumar, Manushi Chhillar and filmmaker Dr Chandraprakash Dwivedi paid their respects at the historic Somnath temple in India today as a sign of salute to Samrat Prithviraj Chauhan's spirit, bravery and sacrifice to protect India's freedom. Carrying Samrat Prithviraj Chauhan's flag, they honoured the brave warrior who happens to be the last Hindu samrat of India. Samrat Prithviraj, is based on the glorious life of the brave king Prithviraj Chauhan and features Akshay Kumar in the titular role. He plays the legendary warrior who fought valiantly to protect India from the 'merciless' invader Muhammad of Ghor in this visual spectacle. As a part of a run up to the film's release, director Dr Chandraprakash Dwivedi and YRF are honouring his life and self-less contribution by carrying his flag to historic spots of India. Dr Chandraprakash Dwivedi said, "Somnath Temple is embedded in the rich history of India and is of remarkable significance as it was plundered for generations by merciless invaders of our country. We brought Samrat Prithviraj's flag to the temple and sought blessings at this holy and pure place. Samrat Prithviraj Chauhan was the last Hindu Samrat who stood up to protect Bharatmata's freedom and dignity from invaders and plunderers. We have made this film to salute his glorious spirit. After riding the Ganga puja with the flag at Varanasi, we are now paying a tribute to the brave warrior at Somnath Temple. It is an incredible moment for us as a team that wanted to bring the samrat's life come alive on the big screen." (19-8)
